Adis Ahmetovic, Member of the German Bundestag, travels to Croatia - "German-Croatian relations in focus"

After his two-day trip to Warsaw in Poland, the member of the Bundestag and member of the Foreign Affairs Committee will travel on to Croatia on (today) Wednesday. The trip will focus on intensifying relations with the EU country, the impact of the Ukraine war on the Western Balkans region and talks on environmental and climate projects. In addition to the exchange with representatives from politics and the economy, a school visit and a lecture at the university in Rijeka are also on the agenda.

"My second trip to Croatia this year is all about intensifying German-Croatian relations. The country plays an important role in the integration process of other EU-accession candidates in the Western Balkans region and is a major trading partner for Germany. Both countries can learn from each other, especially in environmental and climate protection as well as in the construction sector," said Adis Ahmetovic, member of the German Bundestag, at the start of the four-day trip.

In Croatia, Ahmetovic will visit the cities of Zagreb, Omišalj and Rijeka, among others, and spend an afternoon on the island of Cres to learn about solar projects and other energy projects. In the city of Kastav, the member of the Bundestag will visit a housing project.
