"Good day for Bosnia and Herzegovina" - Adis Ahmetovic, MP, on the latest developments in the Western Balkan state

"This is a good day for Bosnia and Herzegovina. Today's decision to refrain from changing the constitution at this point in time is the only right one! Such a step so close to the elections in Bosnia and Herzegovina would have further cemented the country's ethnic division. Therefore, I thank the OHR for doing a good job. Nevertheless, homework must continue to be done and every effort must be made to work out the necessary far-reaching changes to the electoral law with the democratically legitimized institutions and the pro-European forces after the elections in October 2022. This is also a significant step toward EU accession negotiations."
