Statement by Adis Ahmetović, Member of the German Bundestag, on the current developments in Kosovo - "History must not repeat itself"

„The current developments between Serbia and Kosovo are deeply worrying. Instead of further provocations - e.g., putting Serbian security forces on high combat readiness or blocking transport routes and border crossings - there should finally be a genuine will to negotiate in order to prevent an armed conflict. Despite international requests, including one from Kosovo's prime minister asking the NATO-led Kosovo Peacekeeping Force (KFOR) to remove the barricades, key traffic arteries continue to be blocked and border crossings closed. Existing information – if confirmed – that Wagnerian security forces are already stationed in Serbia requires immediate clarification.

Now more than ever, the EU and the U.S. are called upon to initiate immediate, concrete measures to rule out further escalation and to secure peace in Kosovo, for example by again increasing the number of KFOR troops in the country, which have proven their worth as an anchor of stability in the region.

The obvious calculus of trying to repeat a dark chapter in history must not be allowed to succeed."
